

Alligator Cracking Thickness Testing Plate

Used for measuring the crack thickness of paint. There are scraping plate type (with a scraper) and coating frame type two styles are optional.

Technical Specification

| Name                  | Alligator Cracking Thickness Testing Plate |          |               |            |
|-----------------------|--------------------------------------------|----------|---------------|------------|
| Type                  | GLH                                        |          | GLQ           |            |
|                       | scraper                                    |          | Coating frame |            |
| Ranges of measurement | 0-2000μm                                   | 0-2500μm | 100-2000μm    | 100-2500μm |
| Graduation            | 100μm                                      |          | 100μm         |            |